

Abstract

A trim cover comprising a cloth including a backing layer, wherein the backing layer is formed from a polyurethane dispersion. In method form the present invention relates to a method for forming a trim cover comprising supplying a cloth and applying a polyurethane dispersion as a backing layer to the cloth, wherein the polyurethane backing layer is applied and adhered to the cloth without the use of adhesives or flame lamination.

Such trim covers are useful for preparing a trim panel including a supporting substrate.

10